APMA membership also includes any satellite offices situated anywhere else in Australia and New Zealand with the same ABN or company number. However, if those offices are a different corporate or business entity (and therefore have a different ABN or company number), even though they may be related, the following will apply:

- 1) If those businesses have a different ABN or company number, but do trade under substantially the same name as the APMA member, those businesses will not be covered by the original membership but can, if they wish, become separate APMA members for 50% of the annual fee.
- 2) If those businesses have a different ABN or company number, but do not trade under substantially the same name as the APMA member, those businesses will need to pay 100% annual fee in order to become an APMA member."
